BUFFALO, N.Y. (WIVB) – START-UP NY is bringing more than 200 jobs to Buffalo, Governor Andrew Cuomo announced Wednesday morning.

The program, which offers companies zero taxes for 10 years, is creating 400 jobs across New York State. START-UP NY also offers companies access to Empire State’s talent and research capabilities.

Eight out of the 12 businesses are sponsored by the University at Buffalo. The 12 businesses are expected to invest $50 million and create nearly 400 new jobs in tax-free areas sponsored by the UB, Rochester Institute of Technology, Cornell University and SUNY Downstate Medical Center.

One company, with 77 new jobs, was approved in Rochester. A company is bringing 58 new jobs to Ithaca, and two companies are bringing 56 new jobs downstate.

What about the thousands of jobs that Uncle Andy and his merry band of idiots in Albany have forced to leave the state. And the workers who have left. But we will have the Dream Act from Sheldon Silver the slimy one in Albany.
