From the Albany Business Review:
http://www.bizjournals.com/albany/morning_call/2014/12/albany-area-college-receives-nearly-100k-to.html

Albany-area college receives nearly $100K to partner with businesses

Dec 22, 2014, 5:56am EST Updated: Dec 22, 2014, 8:02am EST

SUNY Adirondack will receive nearly $100,000 from the SUNY Workforce Development Grant Program.

The grant program is designed to help new and existing companies train their employees.

The Queensbury, New York college will use the $91,740 in grant funding to train nearly 325 employees from several Albany-area companies including Finch Paper, a paper mill in Glens Falls, New York; Saint-Gobain, a plastic and adhesives manufacturer with several local manufacturing plants including those in Granville and Hoosick, New York; and the Warren-Washington Association for Mental Health, a Hudson Falls, New York not-for-profit.

Krystle covers breaking news