History

Memorandum to Presidents from Office of Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs and Special Programs, dated March 4, 1994 reminded campuses that sexual assault statistics and policies that address prevention, procedures for reporting and campus judicial procedures related to sexual assault must be included in the annual campus security/safety report. A copy of “Sex Offense on Campus” by the American Council on Education and National Association of Student personnel Administrators, which discusses amendments to the 1990 Campus Security Act, is provided.

Memorandum to Presidents from Office of University Counsel and the Vice Chancellor for Legal Affairs, dated December 30, 1992 outlining new requirements under selected provisions of the Higher Education Amendments of 1992. The amendment to the Campus Security Act requires campuses to include in their reports statistics not only of rape but also of all sex offenses, forcible or non-forcible. Campuses must also develop a policy that includes programs aimed at preventing sex offenses and procedures to be followed once a sex offense has occurred.

Memorandum to Presidents from Office of University Counsel and the Vice Chancellor for Legal Affairs and Office of Vice Chancellor for Student Affairs and Special Programs, dated August 2, 1991 outlining new Federal Student Right-to-Know and Campus Security Act and the type of information to be contained in the report. Beginning in August 1, 1991, campuses are required to collect certain information annually relating to campus crimes and their own security policies. Beginning September 1, 1992, this information must be published in an annual security report for dissemination to all current students and employees of the campus and to applicants for enrollment or employment, upon request. The Act also amends the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act ("FERPA" or "Buckley Amendment") to allow campuses to disclose to an alleged victim of a violent crime the results of any disciplinary proceeding conducted by a campus against the alleged student perpetrator of that crime.
