Summary

The following establishes communication protocol from the campuses to System Administration during emergency situations. Consistent with current practice, campus officials are required to promptly inform the Chancellor of the State University of New York when a major unplanned event occurs on or near a campus that could have a significant adverse impact on the campus community, campus property, or other component of the State University of New York.

Process

To streamline notifications, campuses are to inform the Chancellor and other key System Administration offices of such an event by sending an email to emergency@suny.edu. Mail sent to this address will be routed to a number of offices at System Administration, including Communication and Government Relations, University Police, Provost and Student Affairs, Construction Fund, Capital Facilities, and Environmental Health and Safety. The Communications Office will notify the Chancellor. Additional notifications and direct contact with specific offices may be appropriate as circumstances dictate and permit.

Types of Reportable Events:

Campuses should exercise sound judgment in determining which specific events require notification to System Administration. Reportable potential adverse events could be related to the campus community, which includes students, faculty, staff and their families; as well as those that impact the physical infrastructure or environment; or involve financial, legal, or reputational concerns. In all cases, campuses should take immediate action to address the event. Events which would trigger notification often concern health and safety or public safety matters and include, but are not limited to:
• death or major injury to a member of the campus community, especially those that may present trauma to other campus community members
• facility evacuation or serious restrictions of use or operation of facilities
• significant fires or sudden environmental hazards, spills or incidents
• significant acts of violence
• off-campus events that have significant impact on many members of the local community
• outbreak of serious infectious disease
• large scale civil disorder

Notifications:

The campus notification should include information such as the type of emergency, when and where it occurred, affected areas and closed facilities, campus actions and instructions, name and contact information for the campus official who can provide additional information and any assistance requested by the campus. The notification should be a brief summary of the event. It is understood that not all details will necessarily be accurate in the initial notification and additional updates may be necessary.

Additional Potential Notifications:

In addition to notifying the Chancellor’s Office, construction-related emergencies or capital emergencies at State-Operated facilities require a separate notification to the State University Construction Fund (SUCF) for non residential buildings and to the SUNY Office for Capital Facilities (OCF) for residential buildings. These offices will assist with preparing Emergency Declarations, financing for repairs, and seeking assistance from the Office of General Services for emergency services.

Construction-related emergencies and personal injury emergencies at State-Operated Institution Residential Facilities also require notification to the Dormitory Authority of the State of New York (DASNY) Insurance and Risk Management group.

Some events (e.g., fires, work related fatalities, and chemical spills) additionally require notification to external regulatory bodies. See the Appendix for examples of additional reporting requirements. Please note: Nothing in this policy supersedes or negates the obligations placed on a campus under the timely warning and emergency notification provisions of the Higher Education Act (Clery Act) or any other laws or regulations.
