The End of the Remedial Course

By Katherine Mangan
February 18, 2019

Illustration by John W. Tomac for The Chronicle
Most students placed in developmental education accrue large amounts of student debt and seldom move on to credit-earning courses.

U.S. Department of Education, 2017

When students get off to a strong start in their first year of college, nearly 70% frequently pass math and English in one semester.

After speaking with you, you gave me such a boost of confidence to really finally complete my Bachelor’s. Not only for myself, but for my 19 month old Daughter Savanna. I can’t wait for her to see her Mother graduate...it’s time.

I just want to personally thank you. I know if you didn’t reach out for me I would of been completely out of luck. I just found out my job is closing sept 6 so this is even more important to me than before. I wholeheartedly thank you for being a kind person and doing a wonderful job.
